Basketball stars of american

Picture: FOX Sports/Demon Deacon Digest via Youtube/TiswayProductions There is no doubt that college basketball is a major cog in america's basketball scene. Sure, kids in high school show their talent, but by the time they get to college, everyone is of a similar level and to stand out here, you have to be super talented. And those who stand out are quickly judged by NBA teams where becoming a draft pick can set their basketball career for life. But despite the talent, it still takes time and dedication from each and every major player to not only stand out from the rest of the pack, but to build a solid foundation for the rest of their careers. Some college players happen to be among the highest points scoring players in NBA history. Others claim Olympic gold by playing for the 'Dream Team' while sadly, many fall by the wayside, either through constant injuries or in rare cases, substance abuse problems. Now, as a basketball funder, would you be able to identify some of the best basketball players of all time in your college years? At just 20 years of age, she (and her coarse blonde highlights) won the first season of American Idol. 2 of 20 Kelly Clarkson: NOW Since her hit on Idol, Kelly, now 33, has released seven studio albums and is about to embark on her eighth headlining tour. In addition, she has added another role to her long resume: the proud mother. Not only did she give birth to a beautiful baby girl in 2014, she is also the stepmother of husband Brandon Blackstock's two children from her previous marriage. 3 out of 20 Justin Guarini: Then the first american idol runner-up performed so well during the competition, even judge Simon Cowell praised the 23-year-old singer, telling him, Justin, you know, from time to time you're very privileged when you do a competition like this to hear someone undiscovered who has a voice like yours. 4 out of 20 Justin Guarini: Now though he has chopped his signature hair and adopted a more modern wardrobe, Justin, now 36, still has the same big smile. He is also married and the father of two children. And even though his career hasn't just taken off as Clarkson, the singer still performs for large Broadway audiences in theatrical roles in Rent, Romeo and Juliet, and Chicago. 5 out of 20 Ruben Studdard: THEN Nicknamed the Velvet Teddy Bear, second-season winner Ruben Studdard impressed judges and audiences alike with his beautiful re performances of songs like John Lennon's Imagine and Diane Warren's Music of My Heart. 6 out of 20 Ruben Studdard: NOW 2014 proved to be a great year for Ruben: After dropping an impressive 119 pounds in the fifteenth season of The Biggest Loser, the 36-year-old released his sixth studio album, Unconditional Love. 7 of 20 Clay Aiken: Then Back in 2003, the 24-year-old nerd left the American Idol judges speechless with his incredible voice, earning himself the runner-up spot in season two. 8 out of 20 Clay Aiken: NOW exchanging a race to the stage for one on the podium, Clay, now 36, is still on the microphone - only this time, he's pursuing his passion for politics. In the 2014 election, he ran as the Democratic Party's nominee in North Carolina's 2nd congressional district, eventually losing to Republican Party congresswoman Renee Ellmers. Openly gay, he also welcomed his son, Parker Foster, in 2008. 9 of 20 Jennifer Hudson: Then the 23-year-old's premature exit as the seventh runner-up in season three of Idol surprised the public in 2004. 10 out of 20 Jennifer

Hudson: NOW, although she came in seventh place, the 33-year-old is one of the most successful Idol contestants ever, having won an Oscar and a Golden Globe for her 2006 performance in Dreamgirls. He has also inspired millions as a spokesperson for Weight Watchers, having lost a total of £80. And recently she has been invited fox hit show, Empire. But her proudest achievement is probably becoming a mother of 5 1/2-year-old sons David Jr. 11 of 20 Carrie Underwood: THEN rocking big curls and funky outfits, the he won the fourth season of Idol. 12 out of 20 Carrie Underwood: NOW Now 32, Carrie has won seven Grammy Awards, 16 Billboard Music Awards and eight American Music Awards. In 2014, TIME Magazine named her one of the 100 most influential people of the year, citing her incredible musical achievements as well as her philanthropy. Underwood has also been busy in his personal life, too. She married hockey player Mike Fisher in 2010, and the couple welcomed a son in 2015. 13 of 20 Chris Daughtry: THEN Coming in fourth, the singer got acclaim for his hard rock performances throughout the show's fifth season. 14 out of 20 Chris Daughtry: NOW, while Chris Daughtry's facial hair hasn't changed much, his safe life has: The 35-year-old band Daughtry was nominated for a Grammy Award for Best Rock Song in 2008. The married father of four also made his acting debut in the 100th episode of CSI: New York in 2008. 15 of 20 Katharine McPhee: Then the season 5 runner-up, Katharine McPhee ended the audience with her pretty outfits and great voice. 16 out of 20 Katharine McPhee: NOW Pursuing a passion for acting in addition to music, Katharine, now 31, has gone on to appear in films such as The House Bunny and Shark Night, as well as TV shows, Smash and Scorpion. And we can't forget to mention his sexest sense of style. 17 out of 20 Jordin Sparks: Then, at just 17, the youngest American Idol winner ever rocked cute babydoll costumes while belting out powerful performances. 18 out of 20 Jordin Sparks: NOW Now 25, the singer has adopted a more mature style to go with her many hits, which include winning an American Music Award in 2008 and being nominated for a Grammy Award in 2009. 19 out of 20 Adam Lambert: After appearing on season eight of Idol, Adam surprised the audience with his expert tenor voice and enormous vocal range. 20 out of 20 Adam Lambert: NOW A few tattoos and a stylish haircut later, Adam, now 33, has been touring with legendary rock band Queen since 2014. In addition to his many sold-out shows, Adam was also nominated for a Grammy Award for Best Male Vocal Performance in 2011 and received an HONORARY GLAAD Media Award in 2013.
